HARRISON'S TRIP.

AN OVATION GIVEN THE PRESIDENT ALONG THE ROUTE.

Touching Scene at the President's Childhood Home in Indiana.

Feeling Addressed in Acknowledgment of His Cordial and Enthusiastic Welcome.

Ten Thousand Indians Await the Arrival of the President's Party at Terre Haute—Scenes and Incidents of the Day's Journey.

North Vernon, Ind., Oct. 7.—Today has been one of the most interesting days of the nation. Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana have joined in doing him homage, and in the land of Dixie the greeting was no less warm than in the native state of the president. It was hardly more than day-break when the president's train passed through Newport and Covington, but the president was not alone.

At 8 o'clock the train promptly pulled out with the Lawrenceburg local committee aboard. The president's train was now to come and it was all the more interesting to the president that it was not accompanied by the usual crowd that gives him only to the fact that he is president.
